As expected, there may be an overlap between these courses. Courses that cover more than one subject area can potentially be used flexibly in the Program of Studies; however, one class cannot be used to simultaneously fulfill two requirements. For example, if you apply your African American Art class to Early Modern Art, it cannot also be applied to Contemporary Art. You should discuss with your committee chair and the graduate advisor if you have taken seminars that cover more than one area of focus.

A. Pre-Modern Areas:

- *321 Medieval Art, c. 400 to 1100 CE: Metalwork and Manuscripts
- *322 Medieval Art, c. 1100 to 1400 CE: Reliquaries and Cathedrals
- *343 Architecture of the Ancient Americas
- 502 Native American Art I
- 506 Native American Art II

Transfer Credits:

You may transfer a maximum of 12 hours of graduate coursework from another institution, from non-degree status, or from a previous master's degree to the M.A. Program. Any transfer credits to be considered for the degree requirements must have been earned within the previous seven-year period. Courses must be approved by the Art History Faculty.

Graduate Symposium:

In your third semester, you are required to participate in the Graduate Symposium, a conference-style presentation given to faculty and department peers of a research paper produced within the previous year in the program. Students must select a paper topic in the spring semester of their first year in the program. Students must identify a faculty mentor with whom they will work on the paper by the end of April in the spring semester of their first year in the program. At that time, the student must fill out the Symposium Application Form and get two faculty members' signatures on the application, before submitting it to the Graduate Office.

Students will work on their paper with guidance from their mentor in spring and summer. Students must submit a draft of the complete paper to their mentor one month before the symposium for feedback and to have adequate time to revise. The symposium evaluation is conducted by the art history faculty. The faculty will evaluate the student's performance based on the clarity of ideas, the thesis, and the argument, as well as the effectiveness of the presentation and responses to audience Q&A. All M.A. students must pass one symposium before enrolling in thesis hours. If a student does not pass their symposium requirement, they will be allowed a make-up presentation at the following scheduled symposium.

Language Requirement:

All M.A. students must provide evidence of proficiency in a language other than English, appropriate to your area of concentration, by the time of graduation. Students should choose their language in consultation with their faculty advisor, and the language must be relevant to research in the field. To satisfy the language requirement, you can apply 4 semesters of coursework from your bachelor's degree or take coursework at UNM through the 2120 course (or Intermediate level), proficiency in a second language (native speaker, international coursework conducted in the second language), or pass a department-approved language exam.

Before enrolling in thesis hours, you must complete these requirements:

- take and pass Art History 500
- complete all course requirements
- pass the Graduate Art History Symposium
- Significant progress toward completion of the language requirement

M.A. Thesis:

All M.A. students in Art History must write and defend a thesis on an art historical topic of their choice. Prior to writing the thesis, a student will form their Committee on Studies (<https://grad.unm.edu/resources/graduate-students/gc-forms/committee-service.html>), and work with their committee on a reading list and developing a focus for their thesis. The thesis must be approved by the Committee on Studies and should demonstrate evidence of the student's ability to do sound research. It is the student's responsibility to provide each committee member with a complete draft of the thesis and to leave ample time (usually at least 4 weeks) for committee review and student's revisions before the graduation deadline. When the thesis is complete, the student will schedule the thesis defense with their committee, which is an oral defense of the work and a discussion with the committee.

Funding and Tuition: Assistantships, Scholarships, and Links:

All admitted students are given the opportunity (after admission) to apply for Graduate Assistantships (GA). Assistantships entail 10 hours/week assisting instructors in an introductory art history course. Assistantships also include a monthly stipend, 6 hours of paid tuition, additional hours billed at the in-state rate, and free health insurance.

Assistantships are awarded competitively each semester, and funding is not guaranteed.

You cannot apply for an assistantship until you have been admitted to the program. All M.A. students are eligible for up to 5 semesters of departmental funding. Expected completion of the M.A. degree is three years. If a student does not complete the program in 3 years, their access to departmental funding may be restricted.

With an assistantship covering 6 course hours, and the rest billed at the in-state rate, a student taking 9 course hours can expect to pay the remaining tuition balance each semester out of pocket.

Tuition and fee rates are here: <http://bursar.unm.edu/tuition-fees/tuition-and-fee-rates.html>

If you do not have an assistantship, we recommend applying for New Mexico residency for tuition purposes after you have been here for one calendar year.

We recommend that all students investigate other funding possibilities, as well, including:
